FOR HIS WIFE'S SAKE.

A Veteran of the Civil War Ferced to Wrong-doing.

Associated Press leased-wire Service.

NEW YORK, July 17.—William H. Leckler, a veteran of the war, came from the Soldiers' Home at Hampton, Va., to this city a month ago to look for work. He need not have come, for he had as good a living as he could have wished for during the remainder of his life in the home, but his aged wife lay dying in Philadelphia, without any means of support. Their only son, who had provided for the mother, crippled himself accidentally, and was not able to make a living for himself, let alone his mother.

Leckler secured employment with William Force, a ship-meachant, but had only been at work two weeks when he received ward that his wife was dying for the lack of necessaries of life. That night Leckler was given $345 to deposit in the bank. With this money he went to Philadelphia and provided for his wife's wants. He then returned to the home at Hampton, where he was arrested. When Force learned his story, he not only forgave him, but hired an attorney to plead for him. Leckler said he had served during the war and had been promoted fer hravery. When the judge said: "When a man has served his country as you have and led the life you have, he deserves leniency, I will suspend sentence."

A GOOD RIDDANCE.

CHICAGO, July 17.—The Evening Journal prints the following: "The European low rates inaugurated by the trading steamship lines may result in an exodus from Chicago of many men connected with the late strike. Never before in the history of steamship rates has it been possible to go from Chicago to a European port so cheaply. Since the cut rates have been inaugurated, the exodus from Chicago and the Northwest to various points in Europe has figured up a third of the traffic to New York, according to the estimates of local steamship lines, and the announcement of the last great cut in rates has started a real exodus of European-born people.

"Dozens of men, who said they were now on a strike, have been making inquiries at local steamship offices within the last few days, expressing their intention of returning to the "old country" in case the strike was a failure. There are half a dozen interesting phases of the

The news reached the Indiana town from Tolleston where the conductor of an east-bound passenger which left Hammond at 11:20 telegraphed for assistance. He said that when his train came around a curve it was signalled to stop. The engineer was was signalled to stop. The engineer was suspicious and only slowed up. Upon either side of the track stood crowds of men and some of them, he said, were at work on the fishplates when the train came in sight. When the mcb saw that its signal was disregarded several of its members drew pistols and began firing at the trainmen. The shots caused the engineer to open the throttle and the train sped away at a forty-mile clip, followed by a shower of bullets and stones.

Gen. Robbins, who is in command of the Indiana militiamen at Hammond, was received and in twenty minutes the camp

The train reached Hammond at 1:10 a.m. and 100 soldiers piled on board under command of Col. O. H. Lee. The men had orders to shoot without, waiting for any command. As the mob destroyed the telegraph wires within ten minutes after the conductor sent his dispatch from Tolleston, the operator and linemen went with the train. At 2 a.m. Gen. Robbins had a special train in readiness to take the rest of his command to the spot if their services are needed. At 3 a.m. word was received that the train had reached Tolleston. Nothing was seen on the trip of the mob.

Associated Press Leased-wire Service.

MISSOULA (Mont...) July 17.—An east-bound Northern Pacific train, the first in skybeen days, was wrecked today at a point shout two miles east of there by a dynamite cartridge concessed in the track. The engine had barely struck the spot when a terrific explosion was heard, the shock shattering the pilot and right cylinder and piston rod. It also broke the windows of the cab end mail car. Had the engine gone fairly over the cartridge the result would have been more disastrous, as some eight coaches constituted the train which was loaded with troops and passengers.

The strikers denounced the act in unmeasured terms. There is considerable feeling over the return to work of some of the engineers and conductors, and it is believed some one in sympathy with the strikers adopted this method of deterring future progress. A trestic 100 feet long, three miles west of here, and one 115 feet long on the Coeur d'Alene branch, were burned last night.

THE UTAH BILL.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—The bill admitting Utah to Statehood, which has been a matter of such interest to Western people in its various phases of progress toward enactment, was signed last night without any ceremony, and in the ordinary course of business. It came before the President about midnight, along with several other bills, some applications for pardons and other routine matters.

Although it is customary to refer such a bill before signature to the Interior Department, for careful examination, the Utah bill had been so drawn to the President's attention that he was sufficiently acquainted with its terms to waive this proceeding, and, accordingly, gave it his approval on the same day that it reached him. The pen and penpoint with which it was signed is now the property of Delegate Rawlins, and will pass into the keeping of the new State, and be preserved as a historic relic.

was shot by soldiers during the skirmish on Front errest last Friday.

Botward Schwarr was an eye-witness to the shooting. He testified that he was standing in front of his place of business when the soldiers charged on Stewart and two other men. The deceased started to run away when he was shot. After he had fallen to the ground the soldiers advanced a few feet and fired four or five more shots at him. The witness was positive that Stewart was not commanded to halt. He and two other men were sitting on the platform at the freight-had when the soldiers charged on them. They attempted to get away from the soldiers when the latter fired. Scheurr also declared that the strikers did not fire on the regulars. He did not see any rocks thrown or any strack made on the soldiers. Capt. Roberts, who was in command of the soldiers when Stewart was killed, was then called. He deposed that shortly after 10 o'clock Friday morning he was ordered to send a detachment of regulars with the strikers would estempt to fnjure the engineer and firemen. He was told by Col. The witness signalied to the engineer to stop the train, and a squad of soldiers was sent to arrest the men. As the soldiers alighted from the train the captain saw a stone in one of the striker's hands. Fearing that an attack would be made on the soldiers Capt. They then rushed to the scene and found Stewart lying on the ground mortally wounded. The witness declared that he had not ordered his men to fire.

Fearing that a new attack was to be made by the strikers, he issued instructions to his men to fire if necessary. The witness heard several shots fired, but did not see Stewart fall. One of his men subsequently formed him that he had been struck by a missile in the hands of the strikers. Corp. Finn of the same company gave similar testimony. He did not see the strikers fire on the soldiers. Several of the soldiers, however, were struck by missiles thrown by strikers. He did not know who had ordered the soldiers to fire on the mob.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., July 15, 1894.

President Cleveland, Honored Sir.—Now that the great strike in which your official intervention became so necessary has been clearly shown to be a failure, I beg to be allowed to express my unqualified satisfaction with every step you have taken in vindication of the national authority, and with the restoration of law and order which has followed or is now in progress. The caution and deliberation with which you have proceeded are, I think, worthy, like the accompanying firmness, of highest praise, and I am specially gratified that a great and valuable lesson in Constitutional construction has been settled for all time with remarkably little bloodshed. You and the Attorney-General, also, have won the gratifude of the country, not for this generation only, but for all time, and God bless you for it, is the sincere prayer of your obedient servant. AN EIGHT-HOUR BILL.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—Senator George today introduced a joint resolution, providing for an amendment to the Constitution, providing that eight hours shall constitute a legal day's work for persons doing manual labor. The proposed amendment specifies that "no person or association engaged in mining, manufacturing, or in any other mechanical pursuit or public works, or in transportation other than watercraft, shall require or permit any employee doing manual labor to work more than forty-eight hours in one week, except in cases of emergancy, prescribed by law. Persons voluntarily and lawfully engaged in any of the above pursuits shall not be unlawfully hindered or obstructed." THOSE SOUTHERN PACIFIC SUITS

THOSE SOUTHERN PACIFIC SUITS.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—Atty.-Gen. Olney today expressed his doubts of the correctness of the published reports as to the basis and purpose of the suit brought against the Southern Pacific Railway Company at Los Angeles. Late last week the Attorney-General received a telegram from Attorney Denis, stating that he had reasons for believing that the Southern Pacific was not making proper efforts to run its trains, and asking for authority to file against the company a bill in equity, under the anti-trust act of July 2, 1890. This authority was given, and its intention was to compel the company at least to try to fulfill its contracts with the government for the carrying of the mails, and also to make an effort toward resuming interstate traffic.

The conduct of the Southern Pacific has been an enarked contrast with that of some of the other companies in this respect and at was the Attorney-General's understanding that the cuit would be brought to compil the performance of its duties under the law and, as far as he knew, for no other purpose, Mr. Olmey questioned the correctness of that part of the report which stated that one purpose of the suit was to cancel and annul all agreements by which the Southern Pacific and ocreain other companies were consolidated. It is the opinion of the officials at the Department of Justice that such consolidations are not only legal, but were contemplated by the interestice commerce act. Just

Associated Press Leased-wire Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 17.—The Southern Pacific continues to run passenger trains more or less regularly during the hours of daytime, but all night trains are being still abandoned. For the present but one west-bound and one east bound overland train a day will be run on the Ogden route. Non-union train crews are not flocking to division headquarters, and this is probably the reason why so few freight trains are being moved. The first fruit train dispatched for the East since the strike was ardered by Debs was sent out of Sacramento this morning.

A. Sacramento the only exciting incident of today was the dispatching of a train bearing sixty United States regulars to Dansmuir on the Oregon branch. The company's agent at Dunsmuir reported that the strikers there were becoming agly. The sittlers at Bucramento continue active, however. Yesterday several hundred men who had obeyed the order to strike returned to work in the machine shopt. This morning most of them remained away. The men had been intimidated by the strikers and feared violence at the hands of the A.R.U. men if they went back to work this morning. A. N. Towne, vice-president and general manager of the Southern Pacific, posted a notice today that the Sacramento shops would be reopened tomorrow and that protection would be afforded all men who desired to return to work.

Mr. Towne also publicly denies the published statements that men returning to work will be compelled to sign an agreement to stand aloof from all labor unions. He declares that the company simply insists that its employees shall have nothing to do with the A.R.U.

In Oakland as well as at Sacramento the railiroad officials are meeting with difficulty in getting enough men to run their shops and man their trains. The strikers have been pratty successful in initimidating the men who otherwise might have stopped into the vacant positions. Today, however, a few more men returned hang of these odd-looking processions through the streets of Oakland afforded

"They are firm as a rock," he said, "and no amount of coaxing will induce them to quit work."

The trouble experienced in getting out the trains today was due to the switchmen baving gone back to the strikers. It is expected, however, that several of them will return to work contentw.

In conversation with a correspondent he said that the late strike in Chicago had caused him to modify somewhat his views expressed in a recently-published article signed by him, in which he had taken the ground that, a small, but well-disciplined army, with better coast defense, would be sufficient to protect the country from invasions. The question of interior disturbances had not been raised at that time. The general said:

A FRUITLESS CONFERENCE.

SACRAMENTO, July 17.—The Mediation Committee of the strikers held a short conference with General Superintendent Pillmore at 5 p.m. today. The situation was thoroughly discussed, but no agreement was reached. Fillmore was willing to reinstate all the men who quit work, with the exception of those who are now under arrest for ditching the Eastern overland truln last Wadnesday.

When asked if the company was willing to run its trains without Pullmans, Fillmore emphatically assessed in the negative. The committee than withdraw, after announcing that the strikers were determined to stand by their original proposition to sidetrack the sleepers.

Expenses of Detained Immigrants.

Associated Press Leased-wire Service.

WASHINGTON, July 17. — Complaints from the American Express Company against the working of certain branches of the immigration laws have occupied the attention of the House Committee on Immigration at its last three sessions. The particular detail of system with which the shipping interests are dissatisfied is the arrangement governing immigrants who land at Canadian points bound for the United States. This arrangement was made by the Treasury Department for the support of immigration about a year ago, negotiations being made with Canadian steamship companies with the tacit consent of the Canadian government, although no treaty covering the matter was enfared into.

United States inspectors were stationed at Canadian ports to examine immigrants and from each person bound for the United States a fee of 50 cents is collected, the fee constituting a sort of guarantee fund to cover expenses of returning foreigners in case they become a public charge after entering the United States. They are provided with checks after the inspection, which permit them to enter the United States. It is the contention of the steamship companies that the system gives an advantage to the Canadian competitors, since the ships landing at United States norts are obliged to return at their own expense all emigrants who prove to be paupers or ex-convicts or become public charges within a year after their arrival.

Superintendent Stump told the committee that the only alternative was to police the Canadian border and have the inspection carried on, otherwise the system would entail great expense if it would not be entirely impracticable. The steamship companies complain that the law compelling them to support emigrants pending investigation of their eligibility works hardships upon them. At the meeting of the committee yesterday the complaint was considered and the matter will be taken up.

He wished the Governor to call for the assistance of United States soldiers to make the city ordinance effective, the local force being inadequate. The Mayor added that the government had established the city, and was in simple justice bound to afford it protection from the tyranny of any railroad company, and to assist it in enforcing its laws for the benefit and protection of its citizens. No answer has been received from the Governor.

The Mayor of Enid has wired the Governor and United States authorities that the local authorities are unable to keep down insurrection or to apprehend the men who have been destroying the railroad property, and ask for an increase of the number of United States troops now stationed in the city. Olney to appear for settlers in Tulare, Lassen and Kern counties, in California. It will be recalled that Bowers has been making a most energetic fight to have the Attorney-General direct the United States District Attorney in California or his assistants to appear for settlers in certain cases. According to Bowers the titles of the property of at least 1200 settlers in these counties are involved in litigation, and as the settlers have no money to secure counsel the necessity is shown for the government to appear for them against the railroads, the plaintiffs in the cases that have been brought to deprive the settlers of their lands.

Bowers has labored with the members of the Judiciary Committee to induce them to agree to report his resolution, but the committee has declined to do so. Earlier in the session Bowers had an idea that he might be able to force action in the House on this question, but he has now arrived at the conclusion that as long as the committee will not report his resolution either favorably or unfavorably, it will be impossible for him to secure action.

PUBLIC SENTIMENT.

Sound Press and Other Views on the Strike.

Patriotic Utterances from the Great North-west—A Military Despotism—The Cry of "Wolf"—"Peacenbie" Rioters. Governor of Alabama.

Here are some utterances of press and people which are amply worthy of repro-duction in The Times, with its indorse-

MILITARY DESPOTISM. The Men Who are Laying the Foundation for

The Men Who are Laying the Foundation for One.

(The Oregonian:) Debs and Sovereign fear that this government is marching toward a military despotism. Wiser men than Debs and Sovereign are haunted by the same fear, in view of growth of a spirit of lawiess license which, if it shall increase for another generation as it has for the last, nothing short of a military despotism can control. Nothing breeds despotism so surely as insecurity of life and property. Protection, for these had to be established in human society before the idea of political liberty could be evolved. Whenever it has been lost, in a free State, political liberty has been abandoned and society has reverted to the primitive state of despotism.

political liberty has been abandoned and society has reverted to the primitive state of despotism.

Men value political liberty, but they value life and property more. When a free state grows too weak to secure these by maintaining law and order, they barter liberty for security and accept the protection of a despot. Many Greeks did this. Rome did it on a grand scale. Many nations have done it since. Human nature does not change from century to century. Under the same conditions, men will do here and now as they have done everywhere since human society was organized. Preferring freedom with order if driven to the choice they will prefer order to freedom. Once convinced that a free state is too feeble to guarantee security to life and propenty, to guard the free development of industry, to protect the natural operations of trade, to maintain the organization of society and prevent violent subversion of natural economic laws, they will give moral and material support to the first strong man who promises to do all these things by the rule of force.

Men like Debs and Sovereign, Pennoyer support to the first strong man was promises to do all these things by the rule of force.

Men like Debs and Sovereign, Pennoyer and Altgeld are laying the foundation of military despotism by disturbing public confidence in security of life and property, by stimulating ignorant men to passionate attacks upon the order of society, by arraying the poor against the rich in jealous hatred, and encouraging the former to hope that equal division of wealth may be had by organization for violent attack upon the persons and property of the latter. No form of free state can endure in which principles such as these advocate are adopted and endeavored to be enforced by a governing majority. With their successful enforcement comes destruction of social order and general impoverishment, the inevitable reaction from which is a brief season of chaotic anarchy, out of which emerges a military despotism, sustained with money and moral force by all whose interests demand protection for property, business and industry. Probably we are very far from this lamentable consummation in the United States, but every advance of the principle implied in the demands of Debs and Sovereign brings it nearer.

A SHOW OF POWER.

The Palse Reasoning of Debs and His Poolish men of all sorts and conditions, under irresponsible leadership, will quickly seek to show its power, whether any provocation is offered or not. The greater the number of members the stronger the temptation to exploit itself at the first opportunity. An unprincipled man, or one who, from ignorance or prejudice, is blind to public interests becomes dangerous in such a position, equipped, as he is, with the power to temporarily paralyze commerce and industry. In the case of the American Railway Union, composed largely of unskilled workers and under the sway of a man notorious as an agitator and mischief-maker, nothing could have prevented a strike.

It is more or less clear that Debs organized this union for the purpose of waging a battle against "capital" and rising from obscurity to the importance of a national figure. It is entirely clear that if he had any expectation of winning the fight Debs has quite as little intelligence as Martin Irons displayed a few years ago in the Missouri Pacific affair; for, in the first place, he must have assumed that the people were too dull to discriminate between a strike which has some reason behind it and one which as none; second, he mistook the temper of the public whose interests are ruthlessly sacrificed by a "tie-up" of railroads in a totally unwarranted "sympathy" boycott; and, third, he and his lieuteants overlooked the Federal laws are ruthlessly sacrificed by a "tie-up" of railroads in a totally unwarranted "sympathy" boycott; and, third, he and his lieutenants overlooked the Federal laws and the certainty that the government and sympathy and the series are series are series and the series are series and the series are series are series are series and the series are series are series are series and the series are series a now in behalf of law and order is a great "campaign of education." It may be doubted if this country will ever see an-other attempt to "tie-up" railroads.

THE CRY OF WOLF. (The Oregonian:) The folly of firing over the heads of rioters by the militia may easily become a orime. Proof of this was furnished at Westville, Ill., Monday afternoon, in the death, from a volley thus discharged, of two women and one man. One of the former was at the door and the other in the yard of her home, and the latter was a peaceable oblizen going about his business. There can be nothing more reprehensible than the discharge by troops of a volley "over the heads" of a band of active rioters. Fire should be reserved until it becomes necessary to shoot, and then the intent should be to kill. The delivery of a volley of blank carridges, or firing over the heads of rioters, may be likened both in principle and effect to the cry of "wolf," with which weak and injudicious parents are wont to impair their authority over obstreperous children. The hot-tempered boy, who, because he cannot have his way in the household, overturn chairs, breaks dishes and screams defiance at his mother, is father to the man who, when he cannot have his way in the labor world, wents his rage in tearing uprailroad tracks, "kililing" engines, overturning ours and shrieking defiance at the authorities.

Admonition is a good thing and it has its place, but this place is not in front of a mob, nor may it be properly volced by the militiansan's rifle. The stage of remonstrance is supposed to be passed when the order to fire upon rioters is given, and no powder should be wasted. Innocessity—may be killed when this order is obeyed, but it will not be through the weak attempt to frighten the gittly into good behavior by tiring over their heads.

AN UNTENABLE POSITION.

(The Oregonian:) The position of the American Railway Union, as act out in the (The Oregonian:) The folly of firing over the heads of rioters by the militia

AN UNTENABLE POSITION.

(The Oregonian:) The position of the American Railway Union, as set out in the statement of Eugene Debs, printed yesterday morning, and put into effect in Chicago and Sacramento, is untenable in theory and in practice; is incompatible with modern civilization and the organization of society; is destructive of industry, ruinous to commerce, fatal to public order and subversive of government. It is fatal to laber as well, because labor cannot thrive, can earn no wages, cannot even exist as an economic factor without industry and trade, public order and government; without security for life and protection for property; without the organized society known to modern civilization.

The essence of this position is that, whenever any body of workmen, in any part of the country, are dissatisfied with the conditions under which they work, and their employers refuse to satisfy their demands, an irresponsible central power, assuming to control all the labor of the country, may order work to be abandoned wherever such abandonment will work injury, directly or indirectly, to the recalcitrant employer, without regard to the injury wrought to innocent persons or interests; may, indeed, decree general suspension of business, trade and industry all over the country to dragoon public opinion into the war upon the offending employer, by threatening to involve all in complete and common run.

This is not to be endured. All the instincts of order, all the sentiments of civilization, all the impulses of organized social life, rebel against it. The issue no longer is between Pullman and his men. The country has forgotten the existence of Pullman. It is no longer between the American Railway Union and all the rest of the country; between industrial society and a mob despotism; between government and anarchy. The assumptions of the union attack every business interest in the country, however small; every dollar of investment anywhere. No prey will be too small for the tyrant of the boyocit, once he shall be enthroned. These assumptions attack labor itself most fatally of all, since their realization would destroy all means to employ and pay workmen. All the civil sense and patriotism of the country must unite to deny them.

"PEACEABLE" RIOTERS

(The Oregonian:) Debs falsely says that the President is using the army to coorers.

"PEACEABLE" RIOTERS

(The Oregonian:) Dept talsely easy that the President is using the army to coerce and intimidate peaceable working people into a hundliating obedience to the will of their oppressors. The President can hardly reply tota fallehood so gross. Are they peaceable working people who are destroying railway tracks, derailing locomotives, "holding up" trains, stoning railway employees and burning cars by hundreds? Are they peaceable working people who, by violence have stopped half the railways in the United States and give it out that trains will not be permitted to move until their demands are compiled with?

These are the "peaceable working people" of whom Debt talks in his impudent message to President Cleveland. But in fact, to put a stop to these proceedings, we can't have a "military despotism" to soon. The first necessary condition of human society is peace and order. That it will have, if it is compelled to go to a despotism to get it. But the despotism so deplored by Debs will not hurt any really neaceable will apply and care.

SHIRKING RESPONSIBILITY.

(The Oregonian:) The shirking of responsibility for acts of rapine and violence by labor leaders is the shallowest pretense and humbug. These acts are committed by strikers of a certain class, and they who ordered the strike knew when it was ordered that outrages would follow after a certain time. These outrages are a part of the plan, and labor leaders count upon them when they order a strike. They do not command them, but they expect them and rely upon profit by them. Probably no-good would come of the arrest of Debs for conspiracy to commit arson and murder, because his conviction would be difficult, but his moral guilt is certain. He is like a man who fires a train and runs away, disavowing responsibility for the explosion. (The Oregonian:) The shirking of re-

LABOR CRUSHING LABOR

How Leaders of the Debs Breed Oppress Their Fellows.

(St. Paul Pioneer Press:) Just at a time when the clouds above the business world were beginning to break, just when labor was feeling once more the demand for its services, there comes an order, de-livered by a chosen representative of or-ganized labor, which deprives of their support tens of thousands of men outside of the immediate conflict, having no direct relation with the railroads whatever. All reaction with the railroads whatever. All this was inevitable in advance. Debs knew just as well when he set out to tie up all the roads in the country that this must be the effect of it, as he does now. The men who stand by him and support him knew it. And they have persisted in their diabolical work as remorselessly as any military commander ever ordered their diabolical work as remorselessly as any military commander ever ordered bodies of unoffending men, women and children shot down for the purpose of terrorizing others. . . The unions that engage in this strike, like the military mand.

It has come to this mainly because the saboring man will not help himself. Protesting against the tyranny of capital, he offers his neck to the heel of a labor tyranny that towers above t. If the employees of any concern in St. Paul could trace such misfortunes to an act of the fee had made to him. Objetion to physes of any desicretain st. rath counter trace such misfortunes to an act of the capitallist, they would make the sky resound with their probests against it. They must emancipelse themselves from the depotism to which they are now subject before anybody can help them to protest effectually against the wrongs from which they surfer. The battle that is being fought now for the restoration of order and the preservation of the State's authority is the workingman's battle. The curse that has failen on the world of labor is a curse that issues from the workingman's lips. Until he rises against this oppressor, until he refuses to be bound by a senseless edict, until every man whe has lost employment by the great crime of the A.R.U. shall enlist against it and agree to fight every such sacrifice of his liberty to the death, labor will never know either prosperity or fredom.

The Chief Executive of Alabama's Bold and Pariotic Words. (Extract from the proclamation of Gov. Jones of Alabama:) The blockade without lawlessness'is not possible, and to be ef-fective involves crime as an element of fective involves crime as an element or success. Let no man who purposes to ef-fect the "tying-up" of roads be deceived as to the pathway he is invited to pursue, or blind himself to the fact that success can down the rights and liberties of all other classes of his fellow men. The legal right of a freeman to labor or to refrain from labor at his own pleasure, is essential to the dignity and welfare of labor, and is not questioned; but the moral right to refrain from labor depends upon the surrounding conditions and the motive with which it is exercised. Surely no right-thinking man who loves his neighbor believes that it is right or proper to cease labor for the sole purpose of inflicting injury upon the innocent in order to spite an enemy, or to involve one's friends in controverses with which they have neither connection, influence nor interest. The highways of the State are essential to its propperity and welfare, and their free and unobstructed use is vital to the well being and self-respect of the citisen. To blockade the State's highways is a well-known and recognized act of war, but has never yet been deemed the right, even of an enemy, much less a loyal citizen in time of peace. but has never yet been deemed the right, even of an enemy, much less a loyal citizen in time of peace. The railroads are but public highways, and those who own and those who eperate them are trustes to keep them open for the public good. They have become the great arteries of our prosperity, are essential to our very existence, and enter into the daily life of the citizen and influence his welfare and destiny in innumerable ways. Any class of men who can set astride of these great highways and arbitrarily determine when they shall be closed to the public, becomes the master of the citizen, and the citizen in turn becomes its slave. They can practically dictate what he shall eat and what he shall war, when he shall not labor, and the reward when it is permitted him to work, and where he may go, and hold his liberties in a vice. No brave or free people have ever permitted any class to exercise such despotism over themselves. people have ever permitted any class to exercise such despotism over themselves, their persons and their property, and it is trifling with the peace and happiness of the people for any set of men to as-tempt it.

CUI BONO?

Now that the great strike is practically at an end, thousands of people throughout the country will be asking themselves and one another: "Of what good was it? What useful purpose has it served? For nearly four weeks the business of the United States has been demoralized, resulting in a present loss to corporations and tadividuals which it is scarcely possible to estimate in dollars and cents, but which individuals which it is scarcely possible to estimate in dollars and cents, but which must aggregate scores of millions of dollars, and in future loss in the way of destroyed confidence and withdrawed of capital that is atil further beyond computation. If this loss fell only on wealthy destroyed confidence and withdrawed of capital that is still further beyond computation. If this loss fell only on wealthy corporations it would be bad erough, but such is far from being the case. The people who have the mest money are the best able to sixed it, and they will to a great extent be reimbursed by damages which will have to be paid by cities and counties where property has been destroyed. It is the poor people who are this time, as always, the losers through this unreasonable and invacusable movement. The small fruit-grower who has seen his crop go to rain and the wage-earner who has been thrown out of a job at a time when money was scarce, and he found it hard work to support his family, will certainly have their opinions in regard to what has been accomplished by this strike. Even from the narrow standpoint of the labor unions, the strike has done them much harm, and we shall not be much surprised if this does not prove to be the beginning of the end of many of them. It has pointed the minds of many people who have fitting to been great friends of organized labor in the lack of reason which is displayed by me whom accident has placed at the head of many of the republic of such the dates of this republic of such season of the republic of such season when the placed at the head extreme, as in the present case; and when they are once started, who shall say when they will stop? Such movements must go to the extremes to make any show of suc-ceding. They are lawless in their con-ception, and for lawlessness to even make a pretense of succeeding in this country it must, as we have said, go to extremes. Among the chief results of the strike will be that many thousands of misguided men who had steady employment at good wages will find themselves out of a job, and at such times as this, when business is depressed all over the country, it is is depressed all over the country, it is not an easy thing to get employment. In-deed, the fact that this strike should have been inaugurated just when there was such a general depression in business throughout the country, and when many establishments were on the point of clo down, is, perhaps, the most extraordis-and unreasonable feature of the w affair. If it had taken place at a when manufacturers and capitalists making money fast, it might have explicable, although not excusable.

Another result of the strike will be business, or even to close down altogether while a good many capitalists who were or the point of investing in new enterprises will certainly not do so at present, nor can they be blamed for it.

There are two great lessons to be learned from this strike, one by member of labor organizations and the other by the or labor organizations and the other by the rest of the people of the United States. The first is—and it is one which should have been learned long ere this—that the true workingman has everything to loss and nothing to gain by placing himself under the direction of such irresponsible demagogues as Debs. Whether the strike wins or fails, the workingman is bound to be the loser, while the labor leader is bound to be the winner. It is like playing a game with loaded dice, and, as we have said, the American workingman, who is

The second lesson which should have be The second lesson which should have been learned by the people of the United States at large is that in such cases as this, it will not do to temporize with demagogues, who compose these labor leaders, and who do not really represent more than a very small fraction of the laboring men. It should teach the people of this country that the boycott has been carried too far and must cease. We believe that the people of the United States have learned these lessons pretty thoroughly, and that should lessons pretty thoroughly, and that should such an affair as this come up again there will be little inclination to temporise with boycotters on the one hand or to criticise the government for asserting the majesty of the law on the other hand.

Meantime we ask again: What good has the present strike accomplished?

Debs is still making frantic efforts

He is like a gambler playing hi last stakes or a rat fighting for its life after having been driven into a corner The move is to try and work up sentimen among the engineers against Chief Arthur of the Brotherhood. So far, most of the of the Brotherhood. So far, most of the engineers have shown good sense in register for superior to the engineers have shown good sense in register on the country. It is not likely that at the second to the wallow up every railway organization in the country. It is not likely that at the second that while there were as a rifes the credit which they have gained and to allow themselves to be led away to the trouble is about ended, and a large number of the strikers are applying to be taken back to work. Several hundred men have returned to work in the shops, after having signed an agreement to without the strike to the strikers are applying to be taken back to work. Several hundred men have returned to work in the shops, after having signed an agreement to without the strike to the strike the str engineers have shown good sense in refus-ing to obey the orders of this new, self-constituted boas, whose ambition is to matters to a settlement. The Southern Pacific Company is generally taking back all strikers for whom employment can be found, except those who have been be found, except those who have been active in organizing the strike, or who have committed violence. At the same time, strikers who wish to be employed by the company are required to sign a document to the effect that the applicant will sever his connection with the A.R.U.; that he will not join any labor organizations during his employment by the company, and not become a member of any brotherhood or union for five years. This is a very proper course to adopt. It This is a very proper course to adopt. It would certainly be very absurd to take all these men back after the failure of all these men back after the failure of their unreasonable attempt to buildoze the corporation, without making some restrictions. There is no doubt that a great many of the men are really quite willing to make this agreement, as they have been frequently forced into strikes and combinations against their will and will now have a good excuse to make when they are approached by agitators.

From almost all parts of the East reports come to the effect that the strike is virtually over. One of the strongest points ports come to the effect that the strike is virtually over. One of the strongest points with the strikers has been St. Louis, and the local director of the A.R.U. at that place now admits that his organization has lost the contest, fully one-third of the strikers having returned to work. The rest of them are making every effort to get back to work, but it is probable that fully 50 per cent. will not get their jobs again. The same holds true of many other parts of the country. There will be a good many sorely disappointed men throughout the United States during the next few weeks, but they have only themselves to blame—and

That obnoxious person continues to make his absurd claims of victory for the strikers, and prophesies that within three months every railway in Chicago will be bankrupt. It is a great pity that Mr. Debs cannot be put in jall and kept there. In such cases as these the judicial Debs cannot be put in jall and kept there. In such cases as these the judicial power of the country shows inability to "make the punishment fit the crime." The unreasonableness of this action of the AR.U., in continuing to hold out is shown by the fact that the leader of the Pullman strikers has declared that a majority of the strikers there are in favor of giving up the strike, and that if Debs would declare his fight off the Pullman strike would come to an end at once. Thus we have the absurd spectacle of an organization continuing a fight for a number of men after those men have expressed their desire to stop, and have said that they have had enough of it. The vice-president of the Pullman Company says the company is willing to take back its striking employees. Thus there is nothing to prevent these men from going to work again—excepting Mr. Debs. Meantime, the Pullman shops at Ludlow. Ct. have been opened again, all the employees excepting the strike leaders being taken back.

A good many people and some news-roads. This is a subject which will undoubtedly come up for general discussion before long. It is a large subject, also a complicated one. But, as The Times has stated on several previous occasions, the time has not yet arrived for the discussion of such questions as this. First, let the law assert itself, and order be thoroughly established, and then it will be time enough as this.

THAT GREAT UNIT-CAPITAL AND LABOR That dreat unit—capital and labor.

The editor of the Review of Reviews, after a careful study of the industrial situation, says under the head of "Progress of the World," in the current number of his magasine, "We are inclined to accept certain evidences that have come to our notice which indicate that a turn of the tide of business affairs will soon be apparent in all quarters. A return of industrial prosperity after a period of depression almost always comes without observation."

publication took definite measures to ascer-tain to what extent men were out of employment, and what measures were be-ing undertaken in the great business cening undertaken in the great business of ters of the country for the relief of tunemployed. A like canvass was und taken just before the article alluded was sent to press, and with the cheeri result that it was found that in ma cities all the necessity for si-cially organized relief work wended, and that while there we cient to protect capital in the lawful us-of its own, and save it from the uniawful seizure of its possessions by lawless mobs, then again they are a failure, and our seizure of its possessions by lawiess mobs, then again they are a failure, and our government but a name.

When will the people of this great country learn that the American idea is absolute equality—equal rights for all irrespective of the accidents of wealth or station. That the door of advancement is open to every man who does his duty. Everywhere the field of competition is swung wide to him, and there exist no antagonisms but those of his own making. There is no man so low in this country but that if he has the intelligence, the courage and the persistence necessary, he may rise to the level of the highest. Capital is not his chemy, but his helper. Henry Wood has truly asserted that "the law of compensation is untiring in finding the specific gravity of every person, and in meting to him his deserts. If it seem to fall in some cases from the standpoint of mere monetary accumulation, it will not permanently vary when tested by the truer measurement of human harmony and happiness. These human harmony and happiness. These are popularly supposed to be secured only in financial profit, and, therefore, wealth is carnestly sought. A deeper view, however, proves that mere pecuniary success is but the lower and smaller part of them."

regarding labor and capital as two antago-nistic forces, each struggling with the one end in view of getting the better of the other, and look upon them as they are, each the necessary part of one great unit, either of which is incomplete and valueless either of which is incomplete and valueless without the other. When we do this, antagonisms will die out and a juster measure of confidence prevail, and we shall hear no more of "industrial armies," or of strikes and boycotts, those weapons of anarchy and political chaos.

This is the Spirit.

ORANGE, July 16, 1894.—(To the Editor of The Times:) I have just read in your much-appreciated paper the suggestion of some patron, and your hearty indorsement, of the project to raise by voluntary donations a fund for placing a fitting monument over the grave of brave and chivalrie engineer, Samuel Clarke of Oakland, who met his death in the late wreck near Sagramento.

He was a hero and deserves to be thus honored, for the inspiration his example may be to others, and for the significant and potential rebuke it may ever be to the enemies of law and order, and to our right to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

the enemies of law and order, and to our right to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

Incidentally, I want to say "more power to your elbow" in all your patriotic efforts in defence of these vital principles of our government. Your efforts are most timely and will surely result in an enlarged aphere of usefulness and good for The Times. But not to digress, I herewith inclose you $1.00 toward the proposed monument for brave Sam Clarke, with the earnest hope that not less than ten thousand others feel just as I do in our glorious State of California, and that we may, by our mittes, raise such a monument as may fitly commemorate his heroic death at the post of duty and at the same time raise an imperinable rebuse to svery thought and sentiment not in harmony with our laws and the spirit of government. With best kishes for you, I remain very truly yours.

GLENDALE (Cal.,) July 9, 1894.—(To the Editor of The Times:) I was quite surprised and greatly pleased to read in The Times of yesterday the article by George L. Kilmer, entitled "How the Flag of the Twenty-fourth Michigan Regiment Never Went Down," etc. I had the honor of belonging to that regiment, and to participate in the terrible contest there described, although I was not with my regiment in the particular engagement Mr. Kilmer relates, having been detailed for special duty the day before, and it was my fortune to enter the fight with the Sixth Wisconsin (one of the regiments of "The Iron Brigade") and to share in one of the blodiest struggles of that, bloody field. I have just been looking over a small diary, written at that time, and find that its record agrees in several particulars with this account given by George Kilmer. The picture of Col. Henry A. Morrow is quite good. I can testify that he was a brave and gallant officer.

THE BURGLAR STORY.

A Midnight Thief With a Literary Taste Gets out of a Tight Piace.

(Ashton Reporter): "I think that the story I am about to tell you is about as curious an experience as I ever had," said a retired burgiar. "I had got into a fine big house without much trouble and had found things inside just as I expected to find them. There was some silver in the dining-room, and I nipped a few little things that I could get into my overcoat pockets handly, but I had other things in mind, and I went on into the next room, which turned out to be the library. As I in threw my light around this room I saw on the table in the center a magazine open and lying face downward. I picked up this magazine and turned my bullseye on it and saw that it was open at the commencement of a story. The title caught my eye and I stood there a moment with the magazine in one hand and the bullseye in the other and read a few lines. It is seen to be a mightly interesting story. I sat down in a big chair, stood the bullseye on the table at my elbow, where its light would strike the pages and began to read, and became so interacted that I forgot I was there on business.

the applicant. "Drive an engine, fire or switch."

"Take that engine into the roundhouse," was the request, indicating an engine with steam up.

The applicant climbed into the cab, pulled the throttle wide open, and with a bound the engine rushed into the roundhouse. Becoming alarmed the new hand reversed the throttle, and the engine rushed back into the yard. Three times he kept the engine rushing back and forth, till finally the amased railroad man sprang into the cab and seizing the throttle, yelled out:

(Blue and Gray!) A great deal has been written relative to the position of Farragut in the Mobile fight, and the incident of being lashed to the rigging has occasioned considerable controversy. Certainly no question concerning the post occupied by Farragut could arise among those who were on board the flagship and witnessed the engagement. In the main rigging, a few rathines

In the main rigging, a few rathless above the cheer pole, where he could clearly observe all that was transpiring about him, stood Farragut. As the smoke increased, reling above and around the edmirel, he mounted the main rigging higher and higher until his bead was on a level with the buttock band. At that point Capt. Drayion, fearing some accident might ecour, sent Knowies with a space of new lead line to make the admiral more secure. This honest old asilor, in speaking of the incident in 1880, at which time he was quartermaster on the U.S.S. Phiox, stationed at the Navai Academy, expressed thimself as follows:

"Pilot Freeman, who was apt to talk too much, I know very well; but that man Beldwin, who yarns it about the admiral and puta him in the starboard main rigging under the top, he does not know what he is writing about I was chief quartermaster of the Hartford and the man that lashed the admiral to the rigging and I ought to know comething about it.

"When we got up close to the forts, I heard Mr. Kimberly, the executive officer, tell Mr. Westson, our flag lieutenant, to have a rope passed dround the admiral, I was busy at the time with some signal flags for the mornitors, when I was ordered to go up the port main-rigging and put a rope around the admiral. I cut a fathom or two from a new lead line which was lying on deak, went up the ratines to where the admiral was standing, with field-glasses in his hand, just under the buttock shrouds and made the forward and the store he admiral had to cast the rope around him, as we were square shreast of Fort Morgan and it was pretty but work; but when the ships got clear of the forts the admiral had to cast the rope around him, as we were square shreast of Fort Morgan and it was pretty but work; but when the ships got clear of the forts the admiral had to one the desk before him lay great piles of perfectly new bank notes, divided into denominations of $500, $100, $50 and $100 one for the count of the same passed, and into these Mr. Childs was pisting the bank n

As was reported by telegraph to The Times last night, the attendance exceeded any previous Chautauqua opening.

Rev. S. H. Weller, D.D., president opened the session with a few well-chosen welcoming sentences and called upon Rev. B. E. Cory of Pomona to open the session with prayer. After a faryent plea for God's blessing upon the assembled Chautauquans the president proceeded to introduce to the audience an array of musical talent which was truly a pleasant surprise. It is conceded by all that a company of artists without an exception greeted the great audience.

The first number was a vocal solo "Nonever" (Titus Matheir,) given by the superb tenor, Carl Smyser Thrower. The audience called again and Prof. Thrower responded with "Love Duo" from "Maritans" (Wallace.)

Miss Nina Clarice Cuthbert, who has charge of the School of Elecution and Physical Culture, gave a reading, "A Russian Skating Race," by Emma Dunning Banks. Miss Cuthbert understands the art of interpreting the thought of the suthor and has the ability to do it.

Edward H. Clark drew a delicate bow in a violin solo, rendering the first and second movements of the seventh concerto by De Beriot. The audience gave a vigorous encore and Mr. Clark in response gave a masurka by Weinleawaki, Mr. Clark has just returned from Europe, where he has been studying under Herr Hagemeister and Schultz of Berlin for three years past. He has charge of the School of Music and will organize the chorus and give daily rehearsals. The chorus is a main feature of all Chautauqua assemblies and here will not prove an exception.

G. Abram Smith was introduced as a new vocalist before the Long Beach Assembly. He will be welcomed wherever he appears. His vocal solo last night, "She Alone Charmeth My Sadness" (Gounda), was well rendered, and he responded to an encore with "Fare Thee Well." by Grobehhoffman.

The Schubert Quintette Club gave a double number, "The Dance of the Elves," by Greig, and "The Mill," by Gillette. In response to an encore, "Babbliage" by Gilletts, was given. This club is composed of the following gentlemen: E. H. Clark, C. G. Grosser, R. W. Klages, W. H. Mead, C. W. Stevens. The management must be congratulated upon securing this talented combination.

Miss Grace Remination Davis sang "For All Eternity," by Mascheron, and upon being recalled sang, by request, "The Last Rose of Summer," Mrs. Orgawell was pianist throughout the evening.

Mr. Clark's cornet solo, "Fantasia Brilliante," by Levy, was a-great success, and in answer to an encore he played "Suanee River." Mrs. N. B. Grasty pleased the audience with a banjo solo, and the final number, a vocal duet, by Miss Bavis and Mr. Thrower, was a fitting closing, and the audience with a banjo solo, and the final number, a vocal duet, by Miss Bavis and Mr. Thrower, was a fitting closing, and the audience when he alluded to the Chautauquan's reverence for the Stars and Stripes, and its firm st (Chicago Record:) What is the explanation of it? The facts are attested by several reliable persons.

One of the most prominent railroad men in the State and receiver for a great corporation, was a guest at the Grand Pacific Hotel. This was but a day or two ago. While he was at the hotel his son and daughter came to take dinner with him. That evening he went to Paul Gorse, the cierk, and said: "Charge me with two extra dinners."

Mr. Gores knew the daughter was at the hotel, but he had not seen the son, and, for some reason supposed that a girl friend of the daughter had been the third person who took the dinner at the hotel. There is a rule of the house that the name of every guest must be entered on the register. So Mr. Gores opened the book to put down two names. He just wrote the name of Miss.— the daughter. Then he thought for a moment, and wrote below it: "Miss Warburton, Caveland." Of course, Warburton was not the town, but they will de just as well, and in every other particular the story, as told, will be exactly true to the facts. He didn't know why he wrote "Miss Warburton," Cleveland." He simply "thought up" a fletitious name, and put it on the register, as he had often done before.

Next day, when the guest came to pay his bill the cashier looked up the account, and said: "You have been here three days, and there are two extra dinners charged—one for your daughter and one for Miss Warburton."

"Miss Warburton."

"Yes; Miss Warburton of Cleveland. Is there emething wrong?"

Upon cross-examination Mr. Denair admitted that it was customary for some of the railroad men to eat at the restaurant in the depot and that Howarth had just left there and was walking quietly along the platform toward his home when Smith spoke to him, and that there was no train being made up and, in fact, that no business was being transacted there at that time. Kelly was also spoken to but immediately left the premises.

Smith, the special officer referred to, was the next witness. He corroborated Mr. Denair's testimony with reference to Howarth's arrest except as to the language used by the latter, which he stated was "Go away from me, or I'll — you and the court, too."

The Strike is Over and All Signs of it Have Disappeared.

In the absence of better employment those of the strikers who are still out and will probably remain so for some time to come, are putting in their time by manufacturing all sorts of rumors anent a renewal of the tie-up, but a cursory visit to the depots and yards in this city will speedily convince the dubious that locally the strike is not only a thing of the peat, but that all traces of it have disappeared.

The latest report of this kind, which was widely diredulated yesterday, was to the effect that the engineers were to be called out by the chief of their brotherhood. The idea of such action at this stage of the game is ridiculed by both the officials, who are prepared for just such an emergency, and the engineers themselves.

The railroads are taking advantage of the opportunity afforded by the strike to wasd out many of their objectionable employees, whom they could not otherwise have replaced so easily, and the reorganization has been effected on a plan which hids fair to avert the danger of a similar fair to avert the danger of a similar fleving for some time to some. It is estimated that so far 15 per cent. of the old employees of the Southern Pacific Company have been dropped from the rolls, but on the Santa Fe system the percentage is considerably larger.

The circulation of The Times goes right on, and the "frenzy" must be in the fertile brain and facile pen of the Herald man. The Times seems to find its way about with undiminished circulation in spite of the fact that the boys, being badly advised by vicious men, are undertaking to hinder the progress of a paper that early espoused their cause and helped to make a horse for those who had none. Who did for them with them as she did? Their very attitude now shows their unitness to go unaided and unadvised. They are very badly instructed or very ungrateful to thus turn against one who has worked and talked and wriften for their welfare, and whose affectionate interest in those newboys and their home was a subject for notice and admiration not only on this Coast but to the Atlantic. Why, the very scheme of the home, with independence and shelter, was begotten in the generous heart and brain that is now characterized as "little brain and buil-doxing factics exercised toward those unfortunate enough to be in his power."

The Herald states a falsehood in saying these boys are compelled to sell The Times or be "kicked out" (to use the reporter's classic phrase.) These boys are not even asked to sell The Times are among the best friends of the newsboys and helpers of their home, any action tending to throw discredit upon the paper that has done most for their cause is ill-advised and unnecessary; that the boys are injuring their own cause in

A department particularly adapted to the peculiar character of our Southern Californ nia agricultural and horticultural interests, carefully prepared by a practical and educated farmer, will, in the future, be a valuable feature of the SATURDAY TIMES AND WERKLY MIRROR, and will also appear in the daily issue each Saturday. A Southern California News Page is also published weekly. Pardridge sold freely and the demand was only moderate. Early public cables were firm and unchanged for spot and futures were quoted dull and unchanged, but private advices quoted an easier feeling in Berlin and Liverpool, the latter closing lower. There was considerable liquidation by small longs and the general duliness, together with the selling mentioned also created a weak feeling and lower prices. There was a quiet ceremony in the partors of Redondo Hotel, yesterday morning at 11:30, when Mies Grace E. Aull, eldest daughter of J. E. Aull of Los Angeles, was united in marriage to W. N. Newhall of Chicago.

Rev. J. S. Thomson of Los Angeles performed the ceremony in the presence of a small company of interested friends, the couple standing beneath a dainty drapery of asparagus ferns, festooned in front of the alcove window. A true lover's knot of white and blush carnations was suspended just above, and delicate ferns, studded with carnations, formed a pretty tracery over the lace curtains beyond. The mantel mirrors reflected a bank of exquisite roses, and passion vines crept over the portieres and twined about the chandelier. The music of the wedding march, played by Arend's Orchestra, softened into sweet strains of "Oh. Promise Me," as the ceremony proceeded. At its conclusion, and after a brief interval for congratulations, a wedding breakfast was served in the private dining-room, which was besuttfully decorated for the occasion. Passion vines were gracefully festooned from corner to cornier of the celling, and were massed into an effective background for the brilliant-hued dahlias, which banked mantel and sideboard. On the long table were circular mounds of pansies, while big clusters of dahlias added a touch of gorgeous color.

Mr. and Mrs. Newhall went up to the city on the afternoon train, and leave today for the East.

CLASSIFICATION OF RAILWAYS.

The total number of railway corporations in existence June 30, 1893, was 1890, being an increase of sixty-sight during the year covered by the report. Of this number, 752 were independent operating roads and 939 maintained operating accounts. The number of subsidiary roads which maintained financial accounts only, was 778, of which 256 were leased for a fixed money rental, the remainder being operated under some form of traffic agreement not easily subjected to classification. The tendency toward some form of consolidation during the year has been quite marked. Twenty-eight roads, representing 749.37 miles, have been reorganized, and sixteen roads, representing 1752.79 miles, have been reorganized, and sixteen roads, representing 1752.79 miles, have been consolidated. These items are higher than the corresponding items of the previous year. A classification of railways, according to length of line operated, shows that there are forty-two companies in the United States having a mileage in excess of one thousand miles, twenty-six companies operating a mileage between four hundred and and six hundred miles, forty-one companies operating a mileage between four hundred miles, and 902 companies operating an excess of one thousand miles operating a mileage of two hundred and fifty miles or less. The total length of line controlled by the forty-two companies operating an excess of one thousand miles was 93,385.54, being squal to 65.73 per cent. of the total mileage of two country. The second class of roads controlled 11.20 per cent of total mileage, from which it appears that sixty-eight companies controlled 76.98 per cent. of the total railway mileage.

The committee have taken time to carefully look into Mr. Haskell's previous record. We have shundant evidence on this point, cowering a period of fifteen years prior to his coming to Loo Angeles. Testimony of acquaintances of long standing new living in or near this city, istiars from a former pastor, from business and church acquaintances and persons who have known him intimately in his home life for years, all bear testimony of his-good name.

Therefore, it is the judgment of your committee that when Brother Haskell shall have made the statements to the church that he has made to the committee, namely: That he is deeply palned at having been the occasion of this repercach to the church, and desires an opportunity to show by his future life the sincerety of his declarations, he will have done all in his power to make amends for the reproach that has been occasioned.

Commerce Commission, prepared by its statistician, being the complete report for the above-named period, for which a preliminary income account was issued in December, 1893, has just been submitted, MILEAGE. The total mileage of railways in the United States on June 30, 1893, was 176,-481.07, being an increase during the year of 4,897.55 miles. The corresponding in-journey per passenger was 23.57 miles from number of tons of freight reported by the reliverys for the year was 745,119,432. Ton mileage was 28,588,111,823. The aver-age number of tons in a train was 183,57 and the average haul per ton for the en-tire country was 135,60 miles. Passenger train mileage was 235,618,770, and freight train mileage 508,719,506. EARNINGS AND EXPENSES.

The gross carnings from operations on the rallways of the United States for the year ending James 30, 1893, was $1,220,751,874, being an increase of $46,344,531 over gross earnings reported in the previous year. 'Operating expanses during the year were $27,931,299, being an increase of $46,923,303 over the previous year. The income from investments reported by the rallways was $149,649,615, while deductions on account of fixed charges and other analogous items were $431,422,155. The final net income available for dividends was $111,658,034, being a sum less than the corresponding amount for the previous year of $4,907,157. After deducting from this amount the dividends paid, the income account of railways in the United States for the year 1893 shows a surplus of $8,116,745, which is less than the surplus of $8,116,745, which is less than the surplus of the previous year by $5,919,-111. The complete report shows a full income account for each of the ten territorial groups into which the country is divided. The gross amount received from carrying passengers was $301,491,816; from carrying the mail, $23,445,053, and from carrying express matter, $23,631,394. The gross amount received for carrying freight was $289,052,861. The passenger service accounts for 29.49 per cent of the territorings from operation, and the freight service for 68,23 per cent of such earnings. RAILWAY ACCIDENTS.

481.07, being an increase during the year of 4,887.58 miles. The corresponding increase during, the previous year was 3169.78, from which it appears that there was some revival in railway construction during the year covered by the report. The State of Washington leads in construction with 568.32 miles; Montana shows an increase of 409.66 miles; Minnesota of 406.69 miles, and West Virginia of 385.01 miles. The other States which show an increase in mileage in excess of 100 miles are California, Florida, Indiana, Michigan, Missouri, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Texas, Wisconsin and Wyoming. The States of Kanaas, Oregon, the Territory of New Maxico, and the District of Columbia show a slight decrease in mileage, due to remeasurement of main lines or abandonment of small, unimportant lines. The number of roads abandoned during the year was 19. The total length of line, including all tracks, was 230,137.27, which includes 10,051.85 miles of second track, and 42,043.40 miles of yard track and sidings.

CLASSIFICATION OF RAILWAYS. RAILWAY ACCIDENTS.

RAILWAY ACCIDENTS.

The number of railway employees killed during the year was 2727, being greater by 173 than those killed during the previous year. The number of employees injured was 31,729, being greater by 3462 than the number injured the previous year. The number of passengers killed during the year was 299, being less by seventy-seven than the number killed the previous year, and the number injured was 3229, being two in excess of the number injured the previous year. Of the total number of deaths to employees on account of railway accidents, 432 were due to coupling and uncoupling cars, 644 to falling from trains and engines, seventy-three to overhead obstructions, 247 to collisions, and 153 to derailments, the remainder being due to causes not so clearly defined. An assignment of casualties to the opportunity offered for accidents shows one employee to have been killed for every 320 men employed, and one to have been injured for every twenty-eight employed. The most dangerous service is that of trainmen, and for these the statistics show one employee to have been killed for every 115 trainmen, and one employee to have been injured for every ten engaged in this service. A similar comparison shows one passenger to have been killed for each 47,588,966 passenger miles accomplished, and one passenger injured for seach 1,985,153 passengers carried, or for each 47,688,966 passenger miles accomplished, and one passenger injured for seach 1,885,153 passengers carried, or for each 47,688,966 passenger miles accomplished, and one passenger injured for seach 1,985,153 passengers carried, or for each 47,688,966 passenger miles accomplished, and one passenger to have been killed for each 1,985,153 passenger miles accomplished, and one passenger to have been killed for each 1,985,163 passenger miles accomplished, and one passenger to have been killed for each 1,985,163 passenger miles accomplished, and one passenger to have been killed for each 1,985,163 passenger miles accomplished. As assignment

Mention is made in the report of an im-portant step toward the realization of uniportant step toward the realization of unformity in railway accounts in that the Commission has, with the assistance of the Association of American Railway Accounting Officers, revised the classification for operating expenses. It is safe to say that within a few years there will be practical uniformity in the bookkeeping of railways so far as operating expenses are concerned.

Another subject of interest touched upon in the report is the necessity of compiling freight statistics more fully than at present is the case. It is probable that something akin to a clearing-house of freight statistics will become a necessity in the near future.

The total number of locomotives on June 30, 1893, was 34.788, being an increase of 1652 during the year. Of these, 8957 were passenger locomotives, the remainder being unclassified. The total number of cars owned by the earriers making report was 1,118.78, to which should be added 154.068 leased cars, making a total of 1,273,946 cars operated directly by the carriers. This shows an increase in the number of cars directly controlled of 58,856 during the year. Of the total number of cars, 31,334 were in the passenger service, and 1,047,577 in the freight service. The number of passengers carried per passenger locomotive was 1,588,601. These figures show an increase in the efficiency of passenger locomotives. Rumors having been circulated, in regard to the condition of the lake at Rillenbeck Park, a Times reporter yesterday visited the park, and investigated the matter as thoroughly as possible. None of the park attaches were visible, so no information could be obtained as to when the water was last changed or what steps are taken to keep it fresh. It certainly was in a bad state yesterday, however, its color being a sickly green, while the stench that was wafted away to leeward was anything but pleasant. The Chief reported, through Secretary Koffatt, on the application of Joseph Shindell for a restaurant license at the north-sast corner of Central avenue and Adams street. The report stated that the place for which the license is asked is a small grocery, evidently not suited for the restaurant business, and the granting of the license would probably be of no benefit to the city. The application was, on motten, denied unanimously.

An application of H. W. Lewis, for an application of the success of J. G. Fiset, No. 307 South Spring street, and of M. Ordoqui, No. 300 Aliso street. The report stated that the proprietor of the ister place had gone out of business. The license for the latter, therefore, was revoked, and, upon presentation of a proper petition from Mr. Fiset, action on his license was postponed one week.

the license for the place known as the Vienna Buffet be reissued to him.

Mayor Rowan said he thought it about time to give Mr. Kerkow his license back. If ever a man has been punished, the flayor said, that man has. The clerk was thereupon, on motion, instructed to have inserted in each application for an appointment as special policeman a provision to the effect that the appointment shall be subject to duty on election day and other occasions at the call of the Chief of Police.

On motion of Mr. Weidon the regular hour for meeting was fixed at 10 a.m. instead of 9 a.m. as heretofore.

THE REVOKED LICENSES AGAIN.

The Mayor announced he would vacate the chair in favor of Mr. Bradish, and then moved that the permits for the saloon licenses of Mr. Kerkow, for the Vienna Buffet, and of Mr. Schurtz, for the Palace saloon, be reissued. The motion was seconded by Mr. Weldon, who stated he did so in order to get the motion before the board.

Commissioner Arnold said he would not vote for the reissuance of the licenses till as many votes could be secured for them as for their revocation, when they were revoked; which revocation, he said, was decided in spite of his protest that a hearing should first be given.

The clerk began to call the roll on the adoption of the motion, and Mr. Arnold's name came first. He did not refuse to vote, but said his position was as he had just stated it.

Commissioners Bosbyshell, Bradish and Weldon voted against the motion, and the only man to support it was the Mayor.

The motion to reissue the licenses being decided lost, the board thereupon adjourned.

BOARD OF EQUALIZATION.

The Rending of the City Assessment Rolls

Begun Yesterday.

The Board of Equalisation met yesterday morning, and the monotonous reading of the assessment roll was begun. Deputy City Assessor Hull read during a portion of the day, and the reading the rest of the City Assessor Hull read during a portion of the day, and the reading the rest of the time was done by Deputy City Clerk Wilde. The reading, it will be understood, is done in fulfillment of the requirements of the law, and is what may be called a matter of red tape... The clerk goes on with the reading about the same as a proofreader would wend his weary way through a lengthy spring poems the monotony being much the same in either case. While the clerk is thus engaged the members of the board may be seen doing almost anything but paying attention to what is going on. They sit is their chairs, with their feet elevated to their desks, and smoke big cigars, while they peruse newspapers or novels, as the case may be. A touch of interest is added to the business occasionally, when one of the members calls attention to the fact that a fellow-member is not giving proper heed to the work of the board, and asks that he clerk read the last section over again for the especial benefit of that member.

In order to arrange it so that all the members will not have to be present all the time, Chairman Nickell has detailed for this week Messrs. Teed, Rhodes, Pessell, Smith, Campbell and Innes to be present. Those expected to be present at the sessions next week are Messrs. Rhodes, Pessell, Campbell, Innes and Strohm, and the week following, Messrs. Teed. Strohm, Munson, Rhodes, Smith and Innes, Chairman Nickell being in the list for each of those weeks.

There have, so far, been two petitions filed for presentation to the board. Each of them asks a deduction on the assessment of certain real estate because of a mortgage against such real estate.

The Estimates as Purnished by City Auditor The Destinates as Purnames by City Auditor Teals.

City Auditor Teals has completed his estimates of municipal expenditures for the coming year, as required by the charter, for the use of the Council in fixing the annual tax levy. Mr. Teals has gone over the whole matter very carefully, and in some cases has reduced the estimates of the heads of the various departments. In other cases, while the estimates are not reduced, Mr. Teals while transmit to the Council with his report, a communication calling attention to these items, and giving his reasons for submitting shem without change, preferring to allow the Council to take the responsibility for the changes.

Sitting in the corner of the barred space in Department Six yesterday, the spare man, a wreck of his former self, was a passive spectator of the scene which to him must have seened more like a last service to a dead mind, for the acts of the physicians and the attendance of the Judge were a part of the final proceedings, which would be succeeded by his commitment to the asylum. Now and then a flash of intelligence would pass over his features, his eyes would light up, and for a moment he appeared his old self, as he looked about with glances of recognition upon the forms of his associates. Then his eyes would become heavy again, his face would cloud, and, with a nervous gesture, he would sink back into his chair again into a kind of stupor.

In time gone by Biscallus has assisted in conducting many important cases in the lower courts, and he piled up quite a little fortune. But, while being attended by good luck, he was his own worst enemy, rather than his best friend, and indulged in the excessive use of spirits. This cause alone, however, did not and would not have led to the dethroning of his reason, and had it not been for domestic infelicity he might still have occupied a prominent place among members of the bar. But fortune's wings were light, and when she left Biscalluz a flood of troubles overcame him, which proved too great a burden to bear.

He appeared in Judge McKinley's department yesterday afternoon, and, while realizing full well what the ceremony meant, he never once opened his mouth to interrupt the session or contradict statements made by the witnesses. In short, no one seemed to realize more strongly than himself that his mind was on the ragged edge and threatening to topple over into the abyss of oblivion at any moment. When, at last, he was called to take the witness stand he said very quietly that he knew his health was falling and that he could not attend to business or conduct a case without assistance.

Others testified that he was in the habit of breaking out into fits of weeping over his family difficulties almost daily, and many other singular acts were referred to as evidence of his mental unsoundness.

The physicians filled in the blanks on the commitment and the Judge affixed the signature which made M. V. Biscalluz officially insane.

NO JURY NEEDED.

signature which made M. V. Biscalluz officially insane.

NO JURY NEEDED.

Judge Smith is of the opinion that a defendant in a case of disturbing the peace is not entitled to a jury trial, and he, accordingly, orders that the appeal taken by Frank B. Alverson from the judgment of the lower court be dismissed.
The opinion rendered is quite an interesting one, inasmuch as it may tend to define the acts of enthusiastic attorneys in the future, who may be inclined to take a premature appeal.

"The defendant was convicted in the Police Court," recites the court, "and brings the case here on appeal, alleging as ground that he was denied the right of trial by jury, and the further contention is that if he was entitled to a jury trial, then the judgment of the justics was a nullity, and a new trial cannot be, awarded here; that is, he has had, no trial. After an examination of the authortites, I am satisfied that if the defendant was entitled to a jury trial before the magistrate, the judgment of the justice is a nullity, and a new trial could not be awarded here, for there having been no trial below, it would be giving this court jurisdiction of the case in the first instance, which the statute forbids. The only thing this court could do would be, perhaps, to declare the judgment void and remand the cause for a new trial. But was the defendant entitled to a trial, by jury? The offense is disturbing the peace of the prosecuting witness, and the neighborhood of No. 208 North Spring street by tumultuous and offensive conduct.

"The police courts of our city are governed by the Whitney act, and that act provides that in such cases in which trial by jury is not secured by the Constitution of the State, the Judge may proced to judgment in the first instance without a jury. Our Supreme Court has held that the right of trial by jury under our Constitution is the same in which it is exercised in the administration of justice according to the course of common law, as that law is understood in the several States o

ell, 87 Cal., 348.)

"Proffatt on jury trials, sec. 95, says:
"It is evident that a jury trial cannot be demanded in every case where a person is punished for a criminal offense. Such was not the practice at any time in manded in every case where a person punished for a criminal offense. Such is not the practice at any time in a common law, or before the adoption our Constitution. It would be manistly impracticable, for there must be me speedy, summary way of dealing with large and frequent class of minor of-ness, not entailing a punishment of a law and infamous character. Accordingly, there has always been a method the punishing of minor-grade offenders inferior judicial officers generally. And a note under this section he says: tensive and summary police powers are instantly exercised in all the States of e Union, for the repression of breaches the peace, and petty offenders, and ese statutes are not supposed to conflict the the constitutional provision securing the citizen a trial by jury.' A very haustive decision on this question is ate vs. Glenn, 54, Md. Reporter, 572.

"Under constitutional provisions similar our own, that the right of trial by jury is void only as to the duration of the term and the lease becomes the tenant of the owner upon the terms mentioned in the lease except that he does not hold for the time specified. He is, therefore, holding under a lease which is not specified. Section 1943, therefore, applies to this case. It declares that 'A hiring of real property other than lodgings and dwelling-houses, is presumed to be for one as the controversy was a livery stable. When the defendant took possession, therefore, his tenancy was presumed to be a tenancy for one year. The subsequent rights of the Darites are defined by sec. 1946 of the Civil Code. This section as it is enacted, refers for a portion of its provisions to sec. 1945. Sec. 1946 must, therefore, be read as if it contained the provisions of sec. 1946 which are referred to. Interpolating these provisions at the proper place in sec. 1946 the portion applying to this case will read as follows: 'Sec. 1946. A hiring of real property for a term not specified by the parties is deemed to be renewed at the end of the term implied by law, on the same terms and for the same time, not exceeding one month when the rent is payable monthly.'

"In this case the lease for two years being void under the Statute of Frauds, the term was not in law specified by the parties. The other portions of the lease providing for the monthly rental payable in advance being in force, the lease providing for the monthly rental payable in advance to the term thus implied by law, the tenant remaining in possession and the rent payable monthly, the tenancy became, first, a tenancy for one year under sec. 1943 above quoted, that being the term implied by law in such case; secondly, at the end of the term thus implied by law, the tenancy from month to month and thus after the first year it became a tenancy became, under sec. 1945, renewed for the period of one month, and thus after the first year it became a tenancy became, under sec. 1946, renewed for the pointing had the right to give the notice changing the terms of

In the case of Anna Taylor va, City of Los Angeles, Judge Shaw resterday sustained a demurrer to the complaint, which gives judgment for the defendant. The plaintiff sued for $15,300 damages for personal injuries caused by the plaintiff felling into an open ditch on Maple avenue. Judge Shaw based his decision on the cases of Chaffe vs. City of Eureka (78 Cal., 588,) and Arnold vs. San Jose (81 Cal., 589,) and in the course of a brief opinion he says: "I wish to say, however, that I desire these cases to be contrary to toth reason and suthority, and follow them only because they are decisions of the Supreme. (Chicago Mail:) One of the largest wholesale houses in this country has in its employ a woman Ph.G. as buyer, paying her an annual salary representing three ciphers with a fair-sized numeral before them. She travels all over Europe in their interest, and is reputed to be one of the shrewdest buyers in the foreign trade. She is the first, and, as yet, the only woman to fill such a position.

Several manufacturing chemists employ women pharmacists in different capacities. Much of the analytical work, such as testing for the purpose of ascertaining the identity, purity and strength of the drugs and preparations named in the pharmacopose is now beling done by women, who, besides their regular course of study, have paid special attention to gravimetric and volumetric methods of analysis.

HEART FAILURE.

chair in his office at No. 138½ North Spring street, early yesterday morning. Death was due to heart failure.

When Charles F. Simonds, the janitor of the Wilcox Block, entered Mr. Robart's office as usual about 7:30 o'clock, to put it in order for the day, the deceased was seated in an arm chair with his coat off and a glass of water near at hand, but quite dead. The body was still warm showing their life had been extinct only a few momenta. Simonds at once gave the alarm and Dr. Nadeau was called in, but could only confirm the fact of his death. The remains were then removed to the undertaking pariors of Orr & Bird where the Coroner's inquest was held at 11 o'clock.

the Coroner's inquest was held at 11 o'clock.

The evidence introduced disclosed the fact that Mr. Roberts, after spending the night at the Hammam baths, had gone to his office as usual at an early hour in the morning. He must have died almost, immediately upon his arrival there, and the wordict rendered by the Coroner's jury was that death was caused by fatty degeneration of the heart.

He seaves a widow and two little children who reside at No. 143 Twenty-fourth street.

The deceased was a native son and was born in Sonoma county in 1843. He served in the California Hundred during the civil war and was a member of the G.A.R. In 1872 he began practicing law and has sipce been a member of the Los Angeles bar.

Mr. Roberts's life was insured for $20,000, principally air the Bankers' Affiliance, Northwestern Mutual, the Maccabees and Foresters.

BLACKMAILER SENTENCED.

Davies is Given Ninety Days in the County Jail.

Robert Davies, the man who was arrested by Deputy Constable Brakesuhler on Monday for impersonating an officer and levying blackmail upon the denizens of Alameda street and others, pleaded guilty when arraigned before Justice Seaman yesterday. He then asked to be given a chance to leave town, but Deputy District Attorney Rush called the attention of the court to the fast that Davies had adopted this ingenious line of defense upon former occasions, when in durance vile, and insisted upon a trial. Several witnesses were then summoned, who stated that Davies had arrested them with the assistance of a deputy constable's badge and immaculate nerve, afterwards suffering them to go free upon payment of a satisfactory tribute. Among others Davies has victimized the Salvation Army to the tune of $10. He was sent up for ninety days for vagrancy.

ALIVE AND WELL.

Otto Liebman Was Not Burned to Death—A Narrow Escape.

Otto Liebman is alive and well instead of being burned to death in the fire at No. 324 Clay street, on July 2, as was feared. He is somewhat of an invalid, and when aroused from his sleep on the morning of the fire by the smoke, which had nearly suffocated him, barely managed to get out of the building before it was a seething mass of flames. Upon reaching the bottom of the staircase he fell unconscious and was carried to the house of a friend, where he remained prostrated by the shock for a week before he was able to move. The benevolence of this same friend furnished further assistance to the now penniless man, and Mr. Liebman was started in business as a fruit and tobacco dealer at No. 3174 East First street, where he is now located. Mr. Liebman is neither gray nor 60, but a middleaged unmarried man of about 45.

Violated the License Ordinan Violated the License Ordinance.

Three Chinamen were arraigned before Justice Seaman in the Police Court yesterday, charged with violating the license ordinance. One of them, Louey Minn by name, was fined $2. Ah Lung and Yee Hop, the other two, were found guilty and will be sentenced today.

Sergt. Morton arrested Raphael Porfte, as Italian fruit-peddler, yesterday morning for two lifferent violations of the peddlers, ordinance. He was found guilty of ders' ordinance. He was found guilty of peddling without license and of peddling within a portion of the city where it is prohibited absolutely.

Justice Seaman ordered him to pay fines of $1 and $5 for the two offenses.

Died of Typhold Pever. The Coroner's jury yesterday investigated the death of Adelina Gervais, a seven-year-old girl who died on Monday from typhoid fever. The child was treated by Mrs. Langlois, who is not a qualified physician, but the inquest failed to reveal anything amiss, and a verdict was rendered in accordance with the facts.

Taken to Folsom James McCarthy, the Santa Monica burg ar, was taken to Folsom yesterday to serve sentence of one year.

SIX POINTS, out of many, where Doctor Pierce's Pellets are better than other pills:

1. They're the smallest, and easiest to take—little, sugar-coated granules that every child takes readily.

2. They're perfectly easy in their action—no griping, no disturbance.

3. Their effects last. There's no reaction afterwards. They regulate or cleanse the system, according to size of dose.
